“Whiteness and white racialized identity refer to the way that white people, their customs, culture, and beliefs operate as the standard by which all other groups of are compared.”

TALKING ABOUT RACE | NMAAHC

ASPECTS & ASSUMPTIONS OF WHITENESS & WHITE CULTURE IN THE UNITED STATES

White dominant culture, or whiteness, refers to the ways white people and their traditions, attitudes and ways of life have been normalized over time and are now considered standard practices in the United States. And since white people still hold most of the institutional power in America, we have all internalized some aspects of white culture — including people of color.

BLACK LIVES MATTER GRASSROOTS STATEMENT IN SOLIDARITY WITH THE PALESTINIAN PEOPLE

As the world is faced with deep questions about self-determination, as we all desire and pray for a world of peace,, we must stand unwaveringly on the side of the oppressed. When a people have been subject to decades of apartheid and unimaginable violence, their resistance must not be condemned, but understood as a desperate act of self-defense.

Simone Biles shows her greatness again in standing up for transgender community | Opinion

Nancy Armour

USA TODAY

There is no scientific evidence that transgender women athletes have a physical advantage over cisgender women athletes, but that hasn't stopped Gaines from claiming they do. She insists they are "robbing" cisgender women of places on the podium, and she doesn't care if it's a 12- or 22-year-old that she's putting in harm's way in this overheated climate where ignorance and violence are celebrated equally.

Decolonize scientific institutions, don't just diversify them

Indigenous scholars set out eight steps to stop marginalization in academia and to enable a shared Indigenous agenda in science.

By Tara G. McAllister , Leilani A. Walker , Niiyokamigaabaw Deondre Smiles , Lydia Jennings, Bradley Moggridge, Sereana Naepi, Brittany Kamai & Kat Milligan-McClellan

“Dominant science (sometimes referred to as Western science) is rooted in colonization, racism and white supremacy...The scientific community must acknowledge the value of research that is led by Indigenous communities, as well as research that centres Indigenous Knowledge systems... universities must stop treating Indigenous Knowledge as supplementary to ‘real knowledge’; this perpetuates white supremacy in science.”

The history of contemporary critical theory

The central ideas of contemporary CT

Idea 1: Social binary

Idea 2: Oppression through ideology

Idea 3: Lived experience

Idea 4: Social justice

Idea #1: Society is divided into oppressed and oppressor groups

“For every social group, there is an opposite group...

the primary groups that we name here are: race, class, gender, sexuality, ability status/exceptionality, religion, and nationality”

“Oppression describes a set of policies, practices, traditions, norms, definitions, and explanations (discourses), which function to systematically exploit one social group to the benefit of another social group. The group that benefits from this exploitation is termed the dominant (or agent) group, and the group that is exploited is termed the minoritized (or target) group.... Sexism, racism, classism, ableism, and heterosexism are specific forms of oppression” –

Sensoy and DiAngelo, Is Everyone Really Equal? p. 44, 61

Idea #1: Society is divided into oppressed and oppressor groups

64

Is Everyone Really Equal?

Minoritized/Target Group	Oppression	Dominant/ Agent Group
Peoples of Color	Racism	White
Poor Working Class Middle Class	Classism	Owning Class
Women; Transgender; Genderqueer	Sexism	(cis)Men
Gays; Lesbians; Bisexuals; Two Spirit	Heterosexism	Heterosexuals
Muslims; Buddhists; Jews; Hindus; and other non-Christ- ian groups	Religious Oppression Anti-Semitism	Christians
People with Disabilities	Ableism	Able-bodied
Immigrants (perceived)	Nationalism	Citizens (perceived)
Indigenous Peoples	Colonialism	White Settlers

Idea #2: Oppression occurs through hegemonic power

“oppression also traditionally carries a strong connotation of conquest and colonial domination... New left social movements of the 1960s and 1970s, however, shifted the meaning of the concept of oppression. In its new usage, oppression designates the disadvantage and injustice some people suffer not because a tyrannical power coerces them, but because of the everyday practices of a well-intentioned liberal society... Oppression in this sense is structural, rather than the result of a few people’s choices or policies. Its causes are embedded in unquestioned norms, habits, and symbols.” – Iris Young, “Five Faces of Oppression,” Readings for Diversity and Social Justice, p. 36

Idea #2: Oppression occurs through hegemonic power

“Hegemony refers to the control of the ideology of society. The dominant group maintains power by imposing their ideology on everyone.”

“From a critical social justice perspective, privilege is defined as systemically conferred dominance and the institutional processes by which the beliefs and values of the dominant group are ‘made normal’ and universal.” – Sensoy and DiAngelo, Is Everyone Really Equal? p. 73, 80

Idea #3: 'Lived experience' gives oppressed groups privileged access to truth

“The idea that objectivity is best reached only through rational thought is a specifically Western and masculine way of thinking – one that we will challenge throughout this book.” – Margaret L. Andersen and Patricia Hill Collins, “Reconstructing Knowledge,” in Anderson and Collins, Race, Class, and Gender, p. 4-5

Idea #3: 'Lived experience' gives oppressed groups privileged access to truth

Oppression and epistemology:

Privilege

Internalized oppression

Lived experience

Liberatory consciousness

Idea #4: Social justice demands the liberation of oppressed groups

Definition of social justice:

“Prior to celebrating diversity, we must first eliminate intolerance. No matter what form it takes or who does it, we must all take action to stop intolerance when it happens. Working towards a celebration of diversity implies working for social justice – the elimination of all forms of social oppression... Social injustice takes many forms. It can be injustice based on a person’s gender, race, ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation, physical or mental ability, or economic class.” – Mary McClintock, “How to Interrupt Oppressive Behavior,” Readings for Diversity and Social Justice, p. 483

Unifying themes of critical theory

“the cluster of philosophical approaches to [issues of identity is] known by the umbrella term critical theory. Critical theory is today a diverse phenomenon that draws deeply and variously on strands of Marxist thought, psychoanalysis, feminist theory, postcolonialism, poststructuralism, queer theory, and deconstruction... at the core of the various approaches of critical theorists lies a relatively simple set of convictions: the world is to be divided up between those who have power and those who do not; the dominant Western narrative of truth is really an ideological construct designed to preserve the power structure of the status quo; and the goal of critical theory is therefore to destabilize this power structure by destabilizing the dominant narratives that are used to justify –to ‘naturalize’– it” - Trueman

Critical theory as worldview

“we now have Social Justice texts--forming a kind of Gospel of Social Justice--that express, with absolute certainty, that all white people are racist, all men are sexist, racism and sexism are systems that can exist and oppress absent even a single person with racist or sexist intentions or beliefs... sex is not biological and exists on a spectrum, language can be literal violence, denial of gender identity is killing people, the wish to remedy disability and obesity is hateful, and everything needs to be decolonized.

Does this sound like a metanarrative? That's because it is. Social Justice scholarship and its educators and activists see these principles and conclusions as The Truth According to Social Justice--and they treat it as though they have discovered the analogue of the germ theory of disease, but for bigotry and oppression”

-Pluckrose and Lindsay, Cynical Theories, p. 182-183

Adversarial identities

“I began to understand why we [White women] are justly seen as oppressive, even when we don't see ourselves that way. I began to count the ways in which I enjoy unearned skin privilege and have been conditioned into oblivion about its existence.

My schooling gave me no training in seeing myself as an oppressor, as an unfairly advantaged person, or as a participant in a damaged culture. I was taught to see myself as an individual whose moral state depended on her individual moral will.”

– Peggy McIntosh, “White Privilege and Male Privilege,” in Race, Class, and Gender, 72

Adversarial identities

“if you are white in a white supremacist society, you are racist. If you are male in a patriarchy, you are sexist. If you are able-bodied, you are ableist. If you are anything above poverty in a capitalist society, you are classist. You can sometimes be all of these things at once.”

Deferring to lived experience

“It is about race if a person of color thinks it’s about race. This may sound at first like I’m asking you to just take every person of color’s word for it, as if they are infallible... But the truth is, whether or not someone is fallible is beside the point. We are, each and every one of us, a collection of our lived experiences... And our experiences are valid...And so, if a person of color says that something is about race, it is—because regardless of the details, regardless of whether or not you can connect the dots from the outside, their racial identity is a part of them, and it is interacting with the situation.”

—Oluo, So You Want to Talk About Race? 15

Should we defer to lived experience?

- “As a woman, I know that our society is deeply sexist.”
- “As a Black man, I know that our society is deeply racist.”
- “As a lesbian, I know that sexual orientation is fixed from birth.”
- “As a Sufi Muslim, I know that Islam is true.”
- “As a polyamorous man, I know that sex outside of marriage is okay.”
- “As a Hindu, I know that all paths lead to God.”

Sin	Rebellion: breaking God's commandments	Privilege: whiteness, patriarchy, classism, heterosexism, ableism, cisgenderism
Salvation	Redemption: repent and believe the gospel	Activism: confess your privilege, divest from privilege, do the work, center marginalized voices, stop taking up space

The Sin of Privilege

“Antiracist policies cannot eliminate class racism without anticapitalism policies. Anticapitalism cannot eliminate class racism without antiracism.”

“To truly be antiracist is to be feminist. To truly be feminist is to be antiracist.”

“We cannot be antiracist if we are homophobic or transphobic... To be queer antiracist is to understand the privileges of my cisgender, of my masculinity, of my heterosexuality, of their intersections.”

– Kendi, How to Be Antiracist, 159, 189, 197.

The Sin of Privilege

“it is not possible for your parents to have taught you not to be racist, or for your parents to have been free of racism themselves. This is not possible because racism is a social system embedded in our culture and its institutions.”

“From an antiracist perspective, the question is not, ‘Did racism take place’ but ‘How was racism taking place’ because the assumption is that racism is always at play, always operating”

– DiAngelo, What Does It Mean to Be White?, 265, 330.

Doing the Work of Salvation

“The first and most important task in shaping an anti-racist church is to give birth to an anti-racist Christian identity... Taking this birthing metaphor one step further to the biblical imagery of rebirth, this identity-transforming process can be understood in no less powerful terms than what Jesus described as being ‘born again’--a complete spiritual transformation.”—
Joseph Barndt, Becoming an Antiracist Church, 153.

Becoming an Anti-Racist Church
Journeying toward Wholeness

Joseph Barndt

Doing the Work of Salvation

“a positive white identity is an impossible goal. White identity is inherently racist; white people do not exist outside the system of white supremacy. This does not mean that we should stop identifying as white and start claiming only to be Italian or Irish. To do so is to deny the reality of racism in the here and now, and this denial would simply be color-blind racism. Rather, I strive to be ‘less white.’ To be less white is to be less racially oppressive.”

– DiAngelo, White Fragility, 149-150.

Doing the Work of Salvation

“Antiracism work is not a twenty-eight-day journey. It is a lifelong practice. It requires your lifelong commitment to antioppression...

There is no feel-good reward at the end other than the knowledge that you are doing this because it’s the right thing to do.”

– Layla Saad, Me and White Supremacy, 25.
